DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

1. Claims 1, 2, 5-8 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shibuya.

Shibuya teaches the claimed apparatus with an outer frame (20) with movable sections (2) and fixed section (the slanted portion of 20), the linear motor is comprised on the sections and provides linear movement (Fig. 3). This drives the injection screw (Ks), the movable section of each of the linear motors comprises a polygonal prism having a plurality of pairs of plane parallel to each other (Fig. 3, 4). A penetrating hole (Fig. 3) in the movable section allows for a measuring shaft (8) to be placed on the end of the screw. One end of the screw shaft is attached to the moving plate (R) such that it can rotate but cannot move linearly and the movable section of each of the linear motors is fixed to the moving plate via load cell, represented by the pressure endurance mechanism (10).

The outer frame and fixed section are adjacent to one another and the linear motors (29) line both the fixed section and the outer frame.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shibuya in view of Chaya.

Shibuya fails to teach adjustment means.

Chaya teaches a linear motor, wherein a position adjustment means (Fig. 6) adjust the gaps between the magnets (13) and the corresponding inner yokes (12) on which the linear motor magnetic circuit coils (9) arranged on the head carriage (6) are respectively wound and thus maximizing the efficiency of the of magnets (Col. 1, lines 50-52).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Shibuya with adjustment means as taught by Chaya because it allows for adjusting the gap between parts and thereby improve efficiency of the magnets.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shibuya et al in view of Wacker (EP 0744815 A2).

Shibuya fails to teach a linear guide.

Wacker teaches linear motor elements (PM) on a frame (T) that surrounds the element (P), a linear guide is provided at a point in the frame represented at SP.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Shibuya with a linear guide to the frame as taught by Wacker because it ensures the movable section moves accordingly in the desired direction.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 3 and 4 are allowed.
6. Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record fails to teach a molding machine having a linear motor on the fixed section and movable section, wherein the fixed section of the linear motors are detachably attached to the outer frame or the fixed section is a lid to the hole section in the outer frame. The closest prior art, Shibuya, fails to teach this detachable fixed section.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
